

Self Storage: The Perfect Way Out For Business Relocations

Small businesses have to keep an eye on their profit margins. Activities, expenses which can be reduced to ensure profitability have assumed greater significance due the rising inflation and gas prices. Office furniture, fittings, associated air cons and other accoutrements are necessary sunk costs which yield no profit directly but are essential for worker productivity. Costly office cubes need to be leveraged properly to derive maximum utility. The cost being one aspect, fragility is the other, which necessitates that office equipment be handled with care especially when a business has to move from one place to another. In fact most businesses relocating to another place run into two major problems. The primary hassle relates to how to prevent costly office equipment and cubes getting damaged while transporting them. The second problem associated with business relocation is that not all businesses can set up shop at the new place due to lack of ready office space resulting in hefty demurrage charges for the items moved to traditional warehouses. To address these twin problems of relocation, innovative entrepreneurs came up with the concept self storage solutions.

These companies ensure the delivery of the self storage containers to the business office premise. Containers are of varied sizes catering for an entire range and size of office equipment and cubes. The terms and conditions of hire are also flexible. Businesses have the option to pack at leisure and not have to stick to some tight schedule. The containers are ergonomically designed with a low floor board obviating the need of a ramp or a ladder. All containers have adjustable securing arrangements to ensure safety of the equipment being moved. Adequate packing material is also provided by the self storage company to further enhance safety.

In case the small business does not have a ready office at the new place, self storage companies offer to store away the entire container at their company warehouses. The charges asked are reasonable and competitive so the business owner can get a good bargain. Also, most self storage warehouses have round the clock surveillance through CCTV and security guards which guarantees the safety of the business equipment from theft. Warehouses are so built and located that common climatic conditions of rain storm and hurricanes are taken care of. Businesses having sensitive office equipment can opt for temperature and environment controlled containers as well as air conditioned warehouses. Self storage solutions are thus the best way forward for a safe and a cost effective move for small businesses.

About the Author

See more on self-service moving, link to cheapportablestorage.blogspot.com.

Source: <http://www.articleskinny.com>